WHAT MAKES US UNIQUE? IN SHORT, IT'S WHAT WE MAKE.

Our signature style brings the finest fabrics into combination with ethically sourced timbers. And with no two pieces of wood ever alike, it's only natural that unique materials should be paired to unique designs. Of course, turning that vision into reality requires expert craftspeople too...

To us, excellence in one area demands the same in all others. It means our quest for improvement is never ending, but how could it be otherwise?

Ultimately, we're a product of our product.

WORK DOESN'T LOOK LIKE IT USED TO. WHY SHOULD YOUR OFFICE?

Expectations have shifted, both in terms of what we demand from work and what our work demands from us...

Employers need their people to work in an increasingly fluid manner - forming ad-hoc teams that adapt to new challenges and conjure creative solutions. In return, employees expect their workplaces to reflect their values, to prioritise their wellbeing and offer a shared sense of purpose.

The Agent collection has been designed with these demands in mind. Practical and flawlessly styled, it doesn't simply enable excellence - it inspires it.

BREAKOUT & COLLABORATION

In an increasingly knowledge-based economy, relying on the expertise of individuals - or even individual departments - presents an ever-increasing risk. Siloed thinking not only stems the flow of ideas throughout the business, it can stifle their very production.

Conversely, when employees are contributing to a wider dialogue, they tend to bring out the best in each other. But how to make those conversations happen?

Agent's versatility lends itself to an array of configurations ideally suited to collaboration. Bench seating allows for intense group discussions around a single focal point, while the option of a dining or high table can be used to create an archipelago of work islands - allowing groups to conduct focussed discussions without becoming isolated.

ELEGANCE & ADAPTABILITY

WORK CAFÉ

Outside the confines of conference rooms and other traditional work spaces, people are finding that they are more creative, collaborative and engaged. But that's only natural - after all, things come easier when we're at ease.

This thinking has given rise to casual hubs of productivity such as work cafés. Providing opportunities to switch off or to re-energise, these areas allow employees to make more of the moments they spend away from their desks.

Agent's bistro and dining tables can be combined with workstations to create spaces where everything comes together - and does so beautifully.

RECEPTION

A brand is so much more than a typeface or a logo. It's a promise - made both to those you work for, and those who work for you - to embody certain principles. As the space that welcomes the world into your organisation, your reception has to keep that promise.

The Agent collection is designed to rise to the occasion, asserting your identity with confidence. Bold yet not imposing, our chairs, side tables and stools create arrangements that - along with a warm welcome - send a clear secondary message: while you prize comfort, you're only comfortable with the very best.

LOUNGE

The boundary between the professional and the personal has blurred beyond recognition. Typically, this shift has seen work following people home via smart devices. Now, forward-thinking firms are reversing the trend, inviting elements of the home into the office.

With extensive use of warm timbers and bright fabrics, the Agent collection walks the line between domesticity and professionalism with casual grace.
